FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

YESTERDAY'S CELEBRATION.

There was an exhilarating thrill, says The Times, in the air of London yesterday, and we shall not be wrong if we believe it to have been felt throughout the British Isles. Formal observance of the union in arms of Great Britain and the United States there was in plenty, and carefully attuned to the true spirit of Independence Day. The two flags that flew side by side above Buckingham Palace, from the Victoria Tower of the Palace of Westminster, over the western entrance of St. Paul's, from the great public buildings of Whitehall and the City, and from countless private places of business and of residence, proclaimed it to the eye. Here and there in the streets with their twin button-hole flags of America and of Britain, paid homage to it. In Westminster it found worthy expression in speeches by Lord Bryce and Mr. Churchill, as well as by chosen representatives of the American people now in this country. The "ball game" at Chelsea, played with all its native vigour, Messrs. Adam, and watched by the ritual to a vast crowd, and watched by the kings, was in the authentic tradition of its higher vein. But more than all was the sense—through the thronged streets of the old Capital that the common ancestors of both peoples had—of a great event in human history. It was imperceptible, yet hard to define, as are all such movings of the emotions of a people. There was in the organization of it, for who could be so dull as not to be stirred by the visible symbols of the two flags flying side by side? There was also the familiar flavour of a day of pageantry, deepened, perhaps, and accentuated yesterday by the flow of the common day's work that went on so busily side by side with the special parade of the occasion. But there was more than that yesterday—a strengthened belief in the rooted depth and sweep of the wisdom of a free people. Freedom in this celebration of the brotherhood in arms of the American and the British races was justified of her children.

OFFICERS' SERVANTS.

"A Middle-Aged Sub." writes to The Times to-day:—Since coming home from the Western front on sick leave a few days ago I have had to listen to many bitter complaints from men of 45 to 50 now being called up. I have no doubt the recruiting authorities will do their best to grapple with the tremendous problems which the summoning of such men to the Colours entails, but it seems to me that much more efficient use might be made of thousands of the younger men already serving in the Army at home and abroad before many of the soldiers' are torn up by the roots from established businesses, and domestic ties and responsibilities. What about the case of thousands of batmen employed in the ranks of the Expeditionary Force? I know that many of the infantry batmen go into the trenches with their regiments, but there must be battalions of able-bodied young servants who do practically nothing else than polish buttons and put a gloss on footwear that would shame a mirror. I know, because I have always had a batman since the first day I went to the front, and watched him frequently, in addition, the servants of a soldier as groom, in the absence of his own master on leave. There exists, I am quite aware, some hazy and well enmouthaged regulation about dividing the services of a batman between two, two or more officers, but both at the bases and in the forward areas I have never yet come across an officer who did not possess the exclusive services of a batman. Personally, I would be quite contented to act as my own batman, if I thought by so doing I would be contributing the man-power of the armies at the front. A sensible combout of the batmen on the Western front alone would produce a very low estimate, another division for really active service.

Commenting in a leading article on this letter, The Times says:—A large number of officers' servants, as everyone knows, are never taken beyond the front trenches at all. Their normal work in billets and rest camps could be perfectly well performed by a fraction of the present establishment, by the same form of substitution which would release the able-bodied for more essential service. There are plenty of Chinamen in France, howsoever few there are, as servants in the world. In the war season, at any rate, these nations send the trouble of feeding them, why they should not be employed in other purposes than those of servants, we do not understand. Only Chinese labour could probably do all the duties of batman now performed by officers. The thing is clearly done, and The Times, for another public purge of this non-combatant army—such as one recently carried out in the regular battalions in France, and more recently, on the orderly-in English depots. We suggest, from such evidence as we have, that one definite recruiting for organization into there are many others) is the whole system of soldier servants at the back of the front and in England.

OIL AND SHIPS.

The fusion of German industrial commercial financial, and shipping interests says The Times, is still making consistent progress. The latest sensation is the formation of a new petroleum syndicate, which, it is apparently destined to include most of the big German banks, and to absorb the whole of the German-American Petroleum Company, which was originally an offshoot of the Standard Oil Company, and before the war monopolised the German trade. Under its scale and control the German Government has practically annexed the Rumanian Oilfields, the German oil interests feel able to law their plans for the future, and they also claim that they possess some not entirely undesirable control of export—indirect, no doubt, but an overseas country, of great importance. All the capital of the old German-American Petroleum Company is now in the hands of Herr von Riedemann, of the Deutsche Bank, and the Board has been reconstructed by Bremen, and Berlin for the former foreign directors. Now the next move is announced—the Hamburg-America line, and of a representative of Herr Stinnes, to dominate the whole of the Hamburg-America line, and of a representative of Herr Stinnes, to dominate the whole of the mercantile supplies of capital, but the linking up of the new oil syndicate with the great industrial interests, and with the Hamburg-America line, and while at the same time the Government has provided for peace by creating before the consummation of that peace by creating before the eyes of the world, soon the effective instrument against the forces of evil, such by the aid of the German chemist, and unofficial jurisdiction of Ireland's sons. (Applause.)

WESTERN FRONT.

BRITISH LINE ADVANCED.

CAPTURE OF HAMEL.

SUCCESSFUL FRENCH ATTACKS.

Both the British and French commanders report successful attacks, as the result of which important positions have been captured.

Yesterday morning Australian and American troops advanced the line between Villers-Bretonneux and the Somme to an average depth of 2,000 yards. They captured the village of Hamel (about 12 miles east of Amiens) and the woods of Vaire and Hamel.

Australian forces also attacked on a front of 1,200 yards east of Ville-sur-Ancre, and penetrated the enemy's line to a depth of 500 yards. The two operations yielded over 1,000 prisoners and many machine guns and other material.

The French attacked the German lines west of Autreches on a front of five kilometres, and the operation was a complete success. They captured 1,066 prisoners, and at some points the advance reached 1,200 metres.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Thursday, 10.11 a.m.

This morning we carried out a successful operation between Villers-Bretonneux and the Somme.

The village of Hamel has been captured, and the line has been advanced to an average depth of 2,000 yards.

Hostile artillery has been active in the Robecq and St. Jans Cappel sectors.

7.42 p.m.

The operation this morning south of the Somme was completely successful, and was carried out by Australian troops assisted by some detachments of American infantry, supported by tanks. Our objectives were taken and held, and we have gained possession of the woods of Vaire and Hamel, as well as the village of Hamel.

In conjunction with this operation an attack by Australian troops east of Ville sur Ancre was completely successful, and our line was advanced 500 yards on a front of 1,200 yards. The prisoners captured by us in these operations exceed 1,000. Many machine guns, as well as other material, have also been taken.

On the rest of the front there is nothing of interest to report.

Aviation.—On July 3rd the weather was exceptionally fine, but misty in the early morning. Our artillery and enemy activity was slight. Our machines carried out a number of reconnaissances and observed as usual. Our bombing machines were destroyed and four others driven down out of control. During the day and following night we dropped sixteen tons of bombs on Railway junctions at Lille and Courtrai being the principal targets. Our machines returned safely.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Thursday.

North of Montdidier and between the Avre and the Oise, and on the right bank of the latter, we executed several coups de main and brought back prisoners.

Between the Oise and the Aisne our troops, yesterday, about 7.30 p.m., attacked the enemy lines west of Autreches on a front of two kilometres, and made an advance of about 800 metres.

In the evening a new attack launched in the same region between Autreches and Moulin Sour Tourent at the moment when the enemy was preparing to counter-attack enabled us to gain still further ground.

Our total advance, which extends on a front of five kilometres, reached 1,200 metres in depth at one point.

The number of unwounded prisoners taken in the course of these actions is now exceeding 13 officers, over 1,000 soldiers, including 13 of the 300 prisoners.

Thursday Night.

There was nothing to report during the day except a certain amount of artillery fighting between the Oise and the Aisne and in the region of Reims-Aigle.

Aviation.—During the month of June twenty-nine enemy machines were brought down in our aerial combats, including three at night. Seventeen others, including 13 in the region of Reims, were driven down out of control. In addition, thirteen machines were destroyed by our fire and compelled to abandon their mission.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—Fighting activity revived in the Ypres sector in the course of the morning on certain isolated sections. The enemy's artillery fire has been heavy. Infantry engagements developed in the evening.

Army Group of German Crown Prince.—Violent partial attacks have been launched by the French against the Ardre. East of Moulin Sartelon the enemy was repulsed in a counter-attack in our line was retained. On the rest, his attacks broke down in front of our fortifications. Fresh enemy attacks west of Château Thierry broke down.

ITALIAN FRONT.

FURTHER LOCAL SUCCESSES.

Italian Official.—In the mountain zone the methodical destruction of the enemy's defensive positions continued, we gained some ground to the north of Nava, and behind embankments we captured several prisoners, including a battalion and several machine guns were captured, together with a large quantity of war material. Similar gains were made as we enlarged our occupation at the end of Sisemol, and that all promises and covenants may Lorenza Valley, north-west of the Grappa, and on Mount Grappa.

On the Asiago plateau British and French parties penetrated into enemy positions at Canove and Barigo, and captured some prisoners.

During the last two days our bombardment of the enemy positions which Allied planes, dropping flights, dropped a total of 400 bombs on important centres and cross-roads of communication, and on camps and transport, we were engaged with machine gun fire at low altitudes. An airship effectively bombarded the Gas Factory at Campalto.

Attention of the Supreme Military Council.

British Official.—Three successful raids, in which West Yorkshire and Manchester troops and Machine Gun Corps and Australian Artillery Company distinguished themselves, have brought us into possession of valuable information, many prisoners, machine guns, and machine guns. Our casualties in the three raids were eleven. Artillery co-operation was quick and effective. Our aeroplanes on the front secured some direct hits on infantry columns marching up to the line, and on infantry columns marching up to the rear, and have destroyed three enemy machines. Our machines were engaged in fifty-three combats, and twenty-seven of the enemy machines were brought down in flames or destroyed. Twenty-three others were driven down out of control. Two of our machines are missing.

GERMAN VICE-CHANCELLOR AND PEACE.

According to a Reuter's telegram from Amsterdam, in the course of a debate in the German Reichstag, the Vice-Chancellor, Herr Schiedemann and Herr Ledebour; and that the question of peace first formed the subject of consideration. What would be the use of further experience? Had it not caused regular revolt in the country and abroad. The enemy Governments, in order to maintain their power, appealed to people to carry on the war because our sincerity meant words, by saying that they can, and we are unable to bring the war to an end and corresponding to their wishes, or else our words are declared to be a trap. I can, without further detail, assert that Herr Scheidemann's declaration of German Peace aims, for the conclusion of a peace which would be honourable and when the ship was in honour, and without annexations, has already gone beyond this formula. But have already gone beyond this formula. We must wait until the enemy's will to war and destruction is broken. Much as I desire it, on the contrary, I fear that until then all attempts to attain the peace which we all long for will be greatly retarded. Herr Scheidemann's portrayal of the nature and character of the Supreme Army Command and its relation to the Imperial Government is wrong. Hindenburg and the Imperial Government is strong. The war of such duration the importance of the leaders and Army leaders, not the correspondent of every other country can well see that the power of the Army leaders cannot daily between the front, the civil leaders. We cannot dismiss Army leaders at every moment. We cannot dispute the right of the Army leaders to express their opinion clearly on all matters connected with the question whether there will be a reconclusion of the war or not. It is not to our serious issue to the Army leaders and civil leaders should fight each other. We shall soon leaders should fight each other. We shall soon time to go our way. Some we know that this of conquest, but to peace of understanding, for which, as all exists, an overwhelming majority of the House and the entire Government are striving. (Applause.)

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

UNIVERSAL OBSERVANCE.

CELEBRATION IN DUBLIN.

The celebration of American Independence Day was not altogether unnoticed in Dublin. The festival was honoured by the exhibition of flags—the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack—from public buildings, such as bank offices, insurance offices, many business establishments, and from Dublin Castle, the City Hall, and many private houses. The citizens generally were glad to see these outward tokens of the feeling which animates Irishmen towards the people of the United States on the anniversary of the Declaration of their independence. Mr. Adams, the American Consul at Dublin, gave his staff at the Consulate in Leinster street a holiday, and Mrs. Adams was engaged very busily entertaining at tea a company of American sailors at a little club in South King street. Never before was the 4th of July so universally observed as it was yesterday, and that was entirely due to the magnificent and wonderful part which the United States are playing in the world war for the freedom of Europe from the domination of German militarism.

Mr. Adams expressed the opinion that the united celebration of this year among the Allied nations would be the beginning of an era of closer relationship between those peoples who are leading the great cause of advancement to true civilisation and human rights the whole world round.

TREAT TO AMERICAN SAILORS.

Very appropriately, the American Red Cross Canteen Committee, the ladies in charge of which Granard is honorary president, Lady Decies Mrs. Nolan, hon. secretary—and Mrs. Nolan, hon. treasurer, yesterday afternoon a festive entertainment to a number of American naval sailors at the Committee's rooms, South King street. The Committee was originally started for the purpose of visiting hospitals at which wounded soldiers are being treated, but under the exceptional circumstances of the time the Committee allowed the members of the American Navy to actively participate in the Dublin Canteen. Mrs. Hone, Miss Nolan, and Mrs. Nolan—to use the rooms for this little festivity in celebration of Independence Day. The rooms will be free every day from 2 till 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and any sailor who happens to be in Dublin or is passing through, and wishes to use them for reading or writing. The Countess of Granard and Lady Decies attended yesterday, and welcomed the guests, who were attended to by a host of young ladies.

At the suggestion of the Chairman, Mr. J. J. Kennedy, J.P., the Kingstown Urban Council yesterday adopted a resolution congratulating President Wilson on Independence Day.

There was a pretty general display in Limerick and Shannon yesterday, from all the large principal business establishments, clubs, and private residences. The Union Jack was also hoisted on all the Allied countries. All the buildings in Warrenpoint over which the Urban Council have control were decorated with bunting and flags, in honour of America and the Allies. At night a grand patriotic entertainment (organised by Mr. William Bennett, Town Solicitor) was given in the G.N.R. Pavilion, the proceeds being in aid of St. Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Soldiers of the Navy and the returned soldiers of the Navy and the returned sailors' and soldiers' League, several fine films depicting the work of the Navy and the return of the Zeebrugge heroes, and the attack on Zeebrugge were shown, and evoked much enthusiasm. Mr. Wade, the Irish Secretary for the Navy, has been in Warrenpoint during the week in the work that is being done by the hostel for our blinded soldiers and sailors. There was a large attendance.

THE KING AT A BASEBALL MATCH.

Independence Day was celebrated in London in a variety of forms, each having its peculiar attraction and significance. Baseball, the national game of America, more than at Stamford Bridge, where there was a great assemblage of members of the Royal Family, the King and Queen, who were accompanied by Princess Mary, and a great reception.

CELEBRATIONS IN FRANCE AND ITALY.

Telegrams from France show that Independence Day was celebrated with the greatest enthusiasm throughout France.

The ceremony at the Arc de Triomphe de l'Etoile, which took place in the forenoon, in the presence of the President of the Republic and a number of Ministers, Marshal Joffre and Field-Marshal Joffre addressed, through the French Press, a message to the American people, and to Lafayette, "We have given Liberty to you, and you have given Liberty to us," said Joffre, "and we will die, or else our words are declared to be a lie." Marshal Joffre then laid a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Rome were gala days for the occasion, and numerous addresses of the Italian-American Colonial were exhibited.

ONE HUNDRED SHIPS LAUNCHED.

The following has been sent to President Wilson by the Prime Minister:—

"Have just launched one hundred ships from Italian yards, launched in the United States today. Heartiest congratulations on the magnificent performance."

ENEMY ALIENS IN ANTRIM.

Mr. A. W. Samuels, in the House of Commons yesterday, stated, in reply to Captain McCalmont, that 32 persons had been permitted to reside in the prohibited area. Of these, 27 were born in Ireland, 24 in British subject, and a fourth to an Italian, and that the remaining two were born in Germany, but had become naturalised. Yesterday afternoon a festive entertainment to a number of American naval sailors at the Committee's rooms, South King street. The Committee was originally started for the purpose of visiting hospitals at which wounded soldiers are being treated, but under the exceptional circumstances of the time the Committee allowed the members of the American Navy to actively participate in the Dublin Canteen. WAR AIMS.

There are the ends for which the associated peoples of the world are fighting, and which they are resolved to attain, or else perish. For a fresh formal declaration of these aims there is no need. They are known to all men. They are the same as they were at the beginning of the war. They are the same as they were at the beginning of this year. They are the same as they will be at the end of the world.

Rome were gala days for the occasion, and numerous addresses of the Italian-American Colonial were exhibited.

ONE HUNDRED SHIPS LAUNCHED.

The following has been sent to President Wilson by the Prime Minister:—

"Have just launched one hundred ships from Italian yards, launched in the United States today. Heartiest congratulations on the magnificent performance."

NO COMPROMISE.

DR. WILSON AND THE WORLD WAR.

THE BLINDED RULERS OF PRUSSIA.

SPEECH AT WASHINGTON'S TOMB.

Yesterday afternoon, says a Reuter's Washington telegram, President Wilson delivered the following speech at Washington's tomb, Mount Vernon:—

Gentlemen of the Diplomatic Corps and my fellow-citizens, I am happy to draw apart with you to this quiet place of old counsel in order to speak a little of the meaning of this day of our nation's independence. The place seems very still and remote. It is as serious and untouched by the hurry of the world as it was in those great days long ago when General Washington was here, and held leisurely conference with the men who were to be associated with him in the creation of a nation. From these gentle slopes they looked out upon the world and saw it whole, saw it with the light of the future upon it, saw it with modern eyes that turned away from a past which men of that turned away from a past which men of liberated spirits could no longer endure. It is liberated spirits could no longer endure. It is for that reason that we cannot feel, even here, in the immediate presence of this sacred spot, that this is a place of death. It was a place of birth, a great promise that was made here, for all mankind was here given plan and reality. The associations which we are here to renew are those which were necessary and natural in the circumstances of that time, but which have grown august and beautiful in the retrospect of the years. We are standing in the presence of those elements of the spirit which have made us what we are. We are standing in the presence of those principles which we shall always cherish with the most jealous devotion, because we know that they have made us free.

We are here to renew the vows of our own consecration to those principles, to renew the pledges we have given to ourselves that we will never permit any power or any combination of powers to draw us away from the paths we have elected for ourselves and for mankind. We are here to renew the standards of right conduct which we have always professed and always attempted to live by. We are here to renew the purposes we have always entertained with regard to the relations of right which we will sustain to other peoples of the world, both those which are weak and those which are strong. We are here to renew the principles which we will always follow in the interest of peace and righteousness.

We are here to realise to the full the unselfishness of our attitude in the matters with which we have dealt and are dealing, and to remind ourselves that we entered the war because we were made the object of intrigues which subjected us to the menace of organised force. We did not desire the war, but we were not afraid of it when it was forced upon us. We were not afraid to face it, and show the world that we loved peace more than we loved anything else because we were willing to fight for it. We are here to remember that we have sought no material advantage at the end of the war, no advantage that cannot be shared with the whole family of mankind. We are here to remember that we entered the war upon the invitation of other governments, and that we have sought nothing for ourselves that we were not willing to share with all the rest of the family of nations.

We are here to remember that we have always been willing to forgive our enemies when they have asked forgiveness, and that we have never cherished unjust suspicions or sought selfish advantages at the conference table or elsewhere. We are here to remember that we have never entered into any combination which we were ashamed to disclose to the view of the whole world, and that we have never sought anything that we were ashamed to have all men see and know. We are here to remember that we have never desired any peace that was not based upon justice and fair dealing, and that we have always been willing to redress wrongs when they have been brought to our attention in such a way that we could see that justice was done and could be sure that justice would be done in the days to come.

We are here to remember that we have never entered upon any war or any plan of war to assert our own interests as against the interests of others, but have always entered upon any war or any plan of war in vindication of the interests of others as well as our own, because we believed that the principles we were standing for were fundamental and vital to the life of the world. We are here to remember that we have never been double-minded about the objects we had in view, and that we shall not be double-minded about them in the days to come.

We are here to remember that we have always been willing to consult and cooperate with other governments, and that we always shall be willing to consult and cooperate with other governments in the days to come in the interest of mankind. We are here to remember that we have always been willing to act as the champions of right, and that we always shall be willing to act as the champions of right in the days to come. We are here to remember that we have always been willing to serve mankind disinterestedly, and that we always shall be willing to serve mankind disinterestedly in the days to come.

We are here to remember that we have always been willing to fight for the things which we have always professed to love, and that we always shall be willing to fight for them. We are here to remember that we have always been willing to suffer for them, and that we always shall be willing to suffer for them. We are here to remember that we have always been willing to die for them, and that we always shall be willing to die for them.

And I stand here to speak—speak proudly and with confident hope—of the spread of this revolt; this liberation, to the great stage of the world itself. The blinded rulers of Prussia have aroused forces they know little of, forces which, once roused, can never be crushed to earth again, for they have at their heart an inspiration and a purpose which are deathless and of the very stuff of triumph.

THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC.

The number of cases of influenza in the City of Dublin is still on the increase. So seriously has the staff of postmen been affected by the disease that 130 men being on the sick list a number of auxiliary postmen had to be employed yesterday to carry out the delivery.

Of the 341 deaths in Belfast for the seven days ended 29th ult., 32 were due to pneumonia, and many of the cases of pneumonia had their origin in influenza. Dr. Hastie, Medical Superintendent Officer of Health for Belfast, told a Belfast Telegraph representative yesterday that the number of deaths in the city last week was the highest for many years. It was even higher, he believed, than during the worst days of the cerebro-spinal meningitis outbreak of a few years ago.

He is of opinion that the epidemic of influenza was now subsiding.

INFLUENZA IN GERMANY.

The Spanish sickness, says the Lokalanzeiger, has an epidemic character in Baden, the Palatinate and Alsace-Lorraine. The disease is also climate. At Karlsruhe, Mannheim, and Ludwigshafen, where on an average one-third of the population is ill, the malady has reached also to the Saar district during the last few days. The Lokalanzeiger also states that the Spanish illness has made its appearance at Stuttgard a few times before.

Some fifteen soldiers and a number of Russian prisoners are affected. Some cases also are reported from Vorbis.

Yesterday's Tageblatt reports an outbreak of epidemic in Munich, Cologne, Karlsruhe, Offenburg, Landsberg, and Goerlitz. In Jena, Strassburg, Landsberg, and Goerlitz. In all the Berlin schools numerous children were absent also to the same effect. Cases have also occurred in armament and munition works and amongst railway and postal staff.

PUBLIC MEETINGS PROHIBITED.

NEW ORDER FOR THE WHOLE OF IRELAND.

The following Order under the Defence of the Realm Regulation 9 AA was issued last night:—

I, Lieutenant-General the Right Hon. Sir F. Shaw, K.C.B., General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Ireland, in exercise of the powers conferred on me as Competent Military Authority under the Defence of the Realm Regulations, do hereby prohibit from and after the date of this Order the holding of or taking part in any meetings, assemblies, or processions in public places within the whole of Ireland, an area in respect of which the operation of Section 1 of the Defence of the Realm (Amendment) Act, 1915, is for the time being suspended.

This Order shall not apply to any meeting, assembly, or procession authorised in writing by the Chief Commissioner, D.M. Police, or any County Inspector, R.I.C., to whom seven clear days' notice of the intention to hold any such meeting, assembly, or procession shall have been given.

Given at General Headquarters, Ireland, this 4th day of July, 1918.

F. SHAW, Lieutenant-General, General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Ireland, Competent Military Authority.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

THE PROCLAIMED ORGANISATIONS.

At the different Gaelic League offices in Dublin yesterday business showed no indication of interruption as the result of the Lord Lieutenant's Proclamation. A like observation applies to the Sinn Fein head offices in Harcourt street. The Honorary Secretary was in attendance there during the day, and business appeared to be proceeding as usual.

KINGSTOWN AND SINN FEIN.

The Kingstown Sinn Fein Club applied yesterday to the Kingstown Urban Council for the use of the Kingstown Park for the purpose of holding an Aerideacht on August 5th. Mr. Ennis, Secretary of the Council, said he was satisfying themselves in regard to the matter, and would probably be granting the request. Sinn Fein, he added, seem to be a very flourishing organisation. The Chairman (Mr. J. J. Kennedy, J.P.) said that the Lord Lieutenant and the council not decide Aerideacht on August 5th. Mr. Ennis, Secretary of the Co. Limerick and Clare Farmers' Association, proclaimed a meeting of farmers in Limerick on Thursday next to consider the question of the cutting of the tax on wheat, and the result is what we see. At that time not even Sir Edward Carson had the land bribe, and the result is what we see. All that does not exonerate Nationalist Ireland for its share in the part with the free for its share in the battle for freedom. It is the failure which, if persisted in, must end the war in favour of the German Nationalist opinion must inevitably have a most unhappy record upon Ireland's whole future.

THE PROCLAMATION OF SINN FEIN.

The Lobby Correspondent of the Daily News writes:—The Proclamation, being made under the Crime Act of 1887, is in force for 14 days on the Order in Council of the House of Commons, as from yesterday, during which time on address may be moved by Mr. King, M.P., and other Radical members are considering making such a motion. It will probably be used to embarrass the Irish Nationalist members on their return to Westminster next week, as in such case they themselves might take action.

TRIAL OF CORPORAL DOWLING.

Lance-Corporal J. Dowling, Connaught Rangers, who was put ashore from the German submarine, says in the Daily Mail, is to be tried by court-martial at Middlesex Guildhall on Monday next. The charge is one of murder, proceedings will be public, but for State reasons part of the evidence will be heard in private. Mr. Archibald Bodkin will prosecute for the Crown, and Mr. Holman Gregory, K.C., will defend.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

THE AUSTRALIANS' VICTORY.

The Special Correspondent of the Press Association with the British Army, in a despatch from Headquarters, describes yesterday's attack by the Australians as one of the most completely successful operations of its kind that the war can show. It followed so exactly the lines laid down for it in advance that even the most enthusiastic description must read mechanical. The ground favoured the defence, but the attack was irresistible. Our entire casualties scarcely amounted to one-third of the captured prisoners, and we reduced three German divisions to mere wraith of what they had been. The features of the attack, which began at 3.10 a.m., were the foresthought and completeness of its preparation, and the triumphant use of the tank. Five tanks, which had been admirably manoeuvred to their starting points, appear to have sprung a surprise upon the enemy, as at least we may judge from the fashion in which they were able to support the infantry attack, as well as from the haul of prisoners, which seems disproportionate to the magnitude of the operation. Confirmation of the report was that "considerable numbers" of Bavarians were captured. Another was that 1,500 prisoners exceeds expectations, even though one battalion commander and the whole of his command figure in the list. Part of the quasi-artillery preparation was a gas shell bombardment on Hamel. Another very needful assistance was the distraction offered by three distinct attacks launched on the front of the river, which kept the enemy's guns employed. These attacks, in which close on 100 men and some ground were gained, effectively deceived the enemy as to what was happening across the river.

THE LORD MAYOR OF DUBLIN'S LETTER.

Commenting on the letter forwarded by the Lord Mayor of Dublin to President Wilson, the Daily Chronicle says:—It is scarcely designed to improve the practical prospects of establishing Irish self-government, for which we ourselves have so long contended, and secured still little. However, as the letter is thoroughly antiAlly, anti-Entente, and Sinn Feinish, we feel as strongly as ever that the Ministerial authors of the conscription proposal have done a splendid thing for what has since occurred. It was exceedingly important to raise more Irish troops, and something had undoubtedly to be done. But anybody who knew Ireland well, and could judge its situation fairly, must have advised the Government that the two things to be done were any appearance of a threat, and any appearance of a bribe. Conscription was tried first as a threat, and then the land bribe, and the result is what we see. All that does not exonerate Nationalist Ireland for its share in the part with the free for its share in the battle for freedom. It is the failure which, if persisted in, must end the war in favour of the German Nationalist opinion must inevitably have a most unhappy record upon Ireland's whole future.

RECONSTITUTION OF THE LORDS.

The Marquis of Crewe, in the House of Lords yesterday, asked the Government when it was proposed to take action upon the subject of the reconstitution of the House, to which the Conference of members of both Houses, appointed by the Government, had referred. He said that it was hoped that, if the end of the war were immediately in sight, when the Government's intentions with regard to controversies might be announced, and he should look forward with some dismay to the position of that House in that event.

Earl Curzon said that since the presentation of the report of Viscount Bryce's Committee, it had been under consideration for the Government, and in the midst of the overwhelming duties of carrying on the war, to address themselves to questions of such seriousness which, a question of such great importance demanded. If subjects were anxious that the Government should give their attention to the preparation and introduction of a bill there should take such steps as were open to them to marshal the views of those interested in order that the Government before taking action might be assured that they had a public opinion behind them, and that they were in that before again pressing the Government to take action.

Viscount Bryce thought that agreement with the principal parties concerned. Lord Buckmaster and Lord Burnham having spoken, the matter dropped.

LABOUR LEADER AND THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

Mr. Ben Tillett, M.P., during a recent visit to Australia, had an interview with Mr. Hughes, in which he had undertaken at the request of the Viscount French replied to Mr. Tillett:—

"Very many thanks for your encouraging telegram. The men in the ranks appreciate your good work in the cause of freedom, and have always done so."

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

The American War Minister announces that over 2,000,000 men are now with the Colours.

A Moscow telegram states that a bloody battle has taken place between German-Ukrainian White Guards and peasants, who are carrying on guerilla warfare.

The Postal and Telegraph Clerks Association have decided by ballot to affiliate with the Labour Party. 11,245 voted for, and 1,277 against.

In Committee of Supply the House of Commons yesterday discussed the Vote for the salaries and expenses of the Scottish Office. The vote was agreed to.

A general meeting of Trade Unionists at Leicester passed a resolution demanding the release of Messrs. Gallacher, Maclean, and O'Grady, M.P. The Daily Mail, so to be tried by court-martial at Middlesex Guildhall on Monday next. The charge is one of murder, proceedings will be public, but for State reasons part of the evidence will be heard in private. Mr. Archibald Bodkin will prosecute for the Crown, and Mr. Holman Gregory, K.C., will defend.

IRISH FARMERS' UNION.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE AND PRICES.

FARMERS AND THE DEPARTMENT.

A meeting of the Council of the Irish Farmers' Union was held yesterday, in the Mansion House, Dublin, under the presidency of Mr. R. A. Butler.

The Chairman said that one of the most important matters that pressed for attention was the question of the tillage of land. It was admitted by all that the acreage under crop with the exception of oats, was considerably less than it should be. In addition to that, the quality of the crops for wheat and oats, was very poor indeed. (Hear, hear.) The Committee of Agriculture, in order to increase the tillage, would propose a tillage scheme which would include the following:—Ploughing, machinery, seeds, etc. He had no doubt that it would show a considerable increase. He thought that the prices which would be obtained for their produce would be more than counterbalance the increased cost of production. He thought that the increased cost of production would be more than counterbalanced by the increased prices which would be obtained for their produce in the case of tillage. Take, for instance, the question of wheat. Before the war wheat was 30s. per barrel more than oats. Now oats are 30s. per barrel more than Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ..... 5 p.c.

There was no alteration in the Bank rate yesterday, and business generally was on the usual scale. The Discount market remained easy. Call money was in good supply at 2½ p.c., and short loans only bought at the finish. The Discount market was quiet in branches, and looking for fine paper, and some of moderate standing for sale for last week's drafts remained at 3¼ to 3½ per cent. But for the end of July and August Treasury bills changed hands at 3¼ p.c. per cent., and three months' at 3½ p.c.

LONDON STOCKS STEADY.

Markets were the reverse of active on the Stock Exchange the issues of but weather under review, covered quite healthy, and there was no lack of buying orders in numerous instances. Gilt-edged securities displayed a hardening tendency here and there, but changes were few. The Bank returns had little influence either way, for the new was largely discounted. The French communique being especially good. The Paris Bourse was closed. Yesterday's let still showed the undertone of gilt-edged securities, and the Government loans were firm. Home Rails did not come in for much attention, and markings were of small dimensions. Argentine Railways had the chief support around 100½ Indian Government securities were steady at previous levels, and the same remark applies to Colonial issues. Irish Land Loans were steady.
